About Berlin, Germany

Berlin is the capital and chief urban centre of Germany. The city lies at the heart of the North German Plain, athwart an east-west commercial and geographic axis that helped make it the capital of the kingdom of Prussia and then, from 1871, of a unified Germany. Berlin's former glory ended in 1945, but the city survived the destruction of World War II. It was rebuilt and came to show amazing economic and cultural growth.

Berlin is a world city of culture, politics, media and science. Its economy is based on high-tech firms and the service sector, encompassing a diverse range of creative industries, startup companies, research facilities, media corporations, and convention venues. Berlin serves as a continental hub for air and rail traffic and has a highly complex public transportation network. The metropolis is a popular tourist destination. Significant industries also include information technology, healthcare, biomedical engineering, biotechnology, automotive, construction, electronics, social economy and clean tech.

Berlin is home to world-renowned universities such as the Humboldt University, Technical University, Free University, University of the Arts, ESMT Berlin, Hertie School, and Bard College Berlin. Its Zoological Garden is the most visited zoo in Europe and one of the most popular worldwide. With Babelsberg being the world's first large-scale movie studio complex, Berlin is an increasingly popular location for international film productions. The city is well known for its festivals, diverse architecture, nightlife, contemporary arts, and high quality of life.

Berlin is also home to three World Heritage Sites: Museum Island; the Palaces and Parks of Potsdam and Berlin; and the Modernism Housing Estates. Other landmarks include the Brandenburg Gate, Reichstag building, Potsdamer Platz, Memorial to the Murdered Jews of Europe, Berlin Wall Memorial, East Side Gallery, Berlin Victory Column, Berlin Cathedral, and Berlin Television Tower, the tallest structure in Germany. Berlin has numerous museums, galleries, libraries, orchestras, and sporting events including Museum Island, the German Historical Museum, Jewish Museum, Natural History Museum, State Library, State Opera, Philharmonic, and the Berlin Marathon.

Interesting Facts about Rome:

Modern Rome has 280 fountains and over 900 churches. Nearly 700,000 euros worth of coins are thrown into the Trevi Fountain in Rome every year. Profits are donated to Caritas to help people in need. The Romans had built a road network of 53,000 miles by the start of the 4th century. Each Roman mile was approximately 4,800 feet and marked with a milestone, giving rise to the saying "All roads lead to Rome".

Rome's mascot is a she-wolf who cared for the brothers Romulus and Remus, the mythological founders of Rome. Rome became the capital of unified Italy in 1870, taking the title from Florence. Emperor Trajan built the very first trading center in Rome between 107 and 110 AD. He sold a wide variety of merchandise and groceries. Rome's first university, La Sapienza, founded in 1303 AD, is the largest in Europe and the second largest in the world.

Rome has a museum entirely dedicated to pasta. St. Peter's Basilica inside Vatican City is the largest church ever built.
